UNION-STATION CHURCH. A Plan Selected for the New Edifice-The Materials.

The committee appointed by the congregation of Union-Station Methodist church to examine the plans for their new house of worship, which the plans for their new house of worship, which will be erected shortly at a cost of $30,000, met Wednesday night and transacted much important business. Several of the leading architects of the city submitted plans, and after a careful examination the committee selected the one offered by Messrs. Poindexter & Bryan. The new church will be built on the site of the present structure, Twenty-fourth and N streets. It will be an exceedingly handsome edinee and fully equipped with all the modern appliances and conveniences. The material to be used in its creation will be sand stock brick with brownstone trimmings, while the interior will be finished with Virginia or North Caronian pine. The new house of worship will be of the Gothic style of architecture.
